Countywide Public Forums on Regional Workforce Development Strategies & Local Plans Modifications

 Print

The seven Workforce Development Boards (WDBs) of the Los Angeles region are hosting 16 public meetings across the city and county to enhance and strengthen the workforce development system. In addition, several public forums will be held to discuss California Local Plan Modifications.

The community is invited to join the discussion on improving employment services and to share personal assessments of the progress of our regional workforce development plan.

Eight forums will be held in November and December, and will be focused on Assessing the Effectiveness of Regional Programs and Tools. Eight forums focused on Effective Prison to Employment Strategies were previously held in October.

Also in November and December, the City of LA Economic and Workforce Development Department (EWDD) will conduct a series of public forums to gather public input related to the Preparation of the State of California Required Local Plan Modification.

The public is invited to attend any City of Los Angeles Workforce Development Board Meeting. All of these meetings are open to the public.

8 Forums to Assess the Effectiveness of Regional Workforce Development

Join in community discussions about the successes and shortfalls in current regional workforce strategies. Representatives from local workforce development practitioners, and leaders and stakeholders from the nonprofit, social services, education, labor, business and government sectors will be in attendance.

The methods under discussion will include regional planning, coordination and workforce development services provided by the seven Workforce Development Boards within Los Angeles County and their partners through several State of California initiatives including the Slingshot, High Road Partnerships, and Accelerator grant funds.

The State of California seeks to underwrite work that will push progress in achieving three main objectives:

1. In-demand skills attainment
2. Upward mobility of workers
3. Equity for individuals with barriers to employment

These forums will also discuss and review an assessment tool provided by the State to gauge the level of success of the regional efforts.

Input from these meetings will be used to refine the comprehensive regional workforce development plan created by the City of Los Angeles WDB and the six other local WDBs serving the jobseekers and employers within Los Angeles County. This effort is required and guided by the State of California Workforce Development Board.

The County of Los Angeles Workforce Development Board compiled stakeholder and community engagement contact information into a master distribution list from several sources:

- Directory of Planning Partners and Interactive Corrections Map as mandated and provided by CWDB.
- Subscribers to the County of Los Angeles Workforce Development Board's Quarterly Meeting invitation list.
- Self-Subscribers to County of LA Workforce Development News using the County of LA's GovDelivery subscription service.
- RSVPs from County of Los Angeles' America's Job Center of California (AJCCs) Grand Openings events and Special Meetings.
- Local Stakeholder and community contact information compiled by our America's Job Center of California (AJCCs) operators, which are contracted Community Based Organizations (CBOs) that operate the County of Los Angeles' 15 AJCC service locations.

The master distribution list contains contact information of approximately 10K professional individuals from organizations serving the LA County Region, which includes County agencies such as DPSS, CSSD, Probation, Consumer & Business Affairs, community-based organizations, social enterprises, faith-based organizations, and other varied community engagement and advocacy groups. The GovDelivery platform was utilized to send out formal notices to the individuals on this distribution list. To provide content for the notices, the County of Los Angeles WDB created unique marketing materials such as posters, flyers, and digital media distributed via social media (Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, and LinkedIn) and featured on a webpage linked to the frontpage carousel of two websites managed by the County: <https://workforce.lacounty.gov/>, which services the jobseekers, and <https://wdacs.lacounty.gov/>, which is the departmental agency site. The marketing efforts were unified under the tagline "Expanding the Vision for Workforce Development in LA County". This allowed each social media platform to be marketed using respective SEO (Search Engine Optimization) results from hashtags such as "#workforcedevelopment", "#wioa", and "lacounty", and from web-based community interactions such as sharing, liking, or commenting. The optimization and marketing tagline for "Expanding the Vision" ranks 4th by utilizing Google from their search engine of approximately 50M results. In compliance with the directive's instructions, posters were posted in the lobby of our headquarters and the lobbies of our 15 America's Job Center of California service locations, and flyers were circulated in paper and digital form.

Our AJCC operators, which are run by subcontracted community-based organizations (CBOs), conducted outreach via phone and email to their respective local stakeholder and community contacts, to promote awareness of the plan modifications and encourage attendance to the stakeholder meetings. To track stakeholder meeting attendance and assist with promotion of the event, the Eventbrite platform was utilized. Each stakeholder meeting was published under a unique event URL (uniform resource locator) hyperlink and the settings for each meeting were set to Public (opposed to Private). This allowed each event to be marketed using Eventbrite SEOs (Search Engine Optimization) results for tags such as "Government" and "Things to Do in [location name of venue]".

Cyd gives opening comments

Prison population - separated by categories, tend to think in this after incarceration (addressing cognitive skills)

- lack of soft skills, education while in prison
- lack of facilities for basic needs (food, shower) to be able to be employed.
- mental health. Many clients have a lot of trauma, few conflict resolution skills
- substance abuse
- some clients with right skills have felony background and don't pass background checks for employment - can cause discouragement (fragile)
- foster youth - ab12.- for youth at 20 years old, agencies don't want to work with you as timing out soon. Many end up with criminal record - often turn to crime to get off the street.

When you don't have a family - hard to get on right path.

- Foster youth - often a precursor to being in the criminal justice system. (Like 70%)
- Violence

- sex offenders - challenge serving, housing
- transgender populations –
- immigrant populations, monolingual -
- AB 49 - petty theft charges can still affect immigration
- technology challenges - need hand holding for using smart phones, devices, online - a row of desktops (at WSC) won't work for these clients

Cyd: How are we handling those who are not savvy w/ computers/ online ?

- very little technology access in adult education (5 keys representative), not equipped
- lifer population - (Carlos (LATTC)) - female lifer group, computer lab, they bring in volunteers. Fear of technology can be intimidating, much of it is handholding

Cyd – How do you receive referrals? Probation Dept - when asked Probation, they said they refer to the non-profit contracts they have. How do you get your referrals? Hard or soft hand off?

- LAUSD, not a formalized way to identify the persons going into their DACE program.
 - Justice involved individuals
 - Returning citizens
 - Mentors (Amity uses this term)

How many are getting clients with referral forms in hand?

- A few - (Louis AADDAP) not many - receive through churches, outreach, relationship with court syst - not issue to get participants, issue is capacity to serve them.
- Chrysalis - coordination services, steps right after the referral (does not know how many were referred to their agency but did not come. Some clients don't want to be referred to another agency)
 - If a contracted referral or not - works different ways – WDACS is a contracted referral
- ARS Automated Referral System - their clients are monitored this way.
- Referred to AJCCs. A lot of information cannot be shared - confidential. Regardless of services.

Cyd- How do you feel about an electronic referral process? 7 WDBs coming together for a referral system.

- (5 keys) - This is a great prototype. If funds were not object, a countywide referral system would be worth it and make it all work.
- Just getting clients from A to B would be such a big lift
- example of homeless - coordinated entry system – works

Cyd - recidivism starts - barriers to access. Hard hand off - could be supported by a tech system. Other part of system (by CDCR) everyone knows chrysalis, amity and friends outside.

The cdcr has no knowledge of many of the other organizations. Can orgs share their information?

- Q how do we get DMV to talk to Recorders, Social Security, etc.
- If from state system, can get DMV right away as DMV is state. If out of county prison, can get birth certificate, if out of federal prison, then can get social security

Cyd- Q what if funds were used for system issues? To better align....
What can be done at system level to do better? Cyd, a new governor may have a different focus.

- friends outside, capacity program - coordinating right services in right location.
- Federal probation versus state probation is totally different

Cyd - No way to track the participation rates and outcomes without a system (unlike caljobs)

- Carlos- idea - going back to Gold Card for Veterans- what if we had a "Golden Card for new contributors". entitle them to receive services - WSCs have to right to work docs - social, ID, etc, just like selective service - if didn't register when young (then in prison)
Gov brown - came to CDCR visited to visit lifers - Gov wanted DMV to work with clients
- Getting copy of records upon release would help -
#1Degree (a 211 resource guide, but different) came to LA - DHS contracted with them, encourages caseworkers to use it.
Functionality to track referrals.

- P3 - great resource - P3 has contracted with Cal State Northridge for resource guide
- Identifying employers that will hire the populations
- How doing that now? started now
- Small business owners - encouraging them, creating a campaign
- Focus on the end user - an app #1Degree - yes - the app shows all the resources
- Difficulty of engaging employers - the county itself is not re-entry friendly
- All ajccs are overwhelmed - too many demands, not realistic - two back ups - one full of barriers the other full of excuses.
- Employers want more preparation - very entry level - (very small percentage reentry have career paths.). Not ready to go to work - so many barriers
- New model - not so much engaging employers - don't show up for whatever service you coordinate for them.

Public Forum on Reentry
Notes

ID/ Birth Certificate/ Social Security Number

- Big barrier towards getting individuals to the services they need
- CTU – community transition unit in county jail → not helpful (at all)
 - Do not take ownership at all for case management
 - Major gap between correctional facility and outside services

County has 400 million dollars allocated for initiative to address homelessness

- Housing program for 15 months
- DPSS – has 150 slots
- Issue is that there are thousands of people → how do we identify who it is given to
- Expect people to be continuously employed for 15 months

Former Homeless Veteran (at forum) → didn't know where to go

- Needed shelter, somewhere safe with her daughter, and felt like she was being passed on
- Was told about programs with a waitlist of minimum 90 days before she can get housing, but she was homeless at that moment
- Did not go to a homeless shelter because she doesn't know if was safe for her and her daughter → different types of homelessness → didn't know if she was going to be lumped in with people with more extreme forms of mental health and substance abuse problems
- There are different levels and some people do not necessarily have the same issues.
 - For example, she didn't need mental health counseling bc she was able to get that from the VA, but she did need housing and employment services.

Viviana Hernandez

- Psychological help is very crucial since the beginning
- Many have never had key to apt or been employed and its very important to be given support throughout the process.

Referrals

- Come from the county, probation, department of mental health, etc
- Have a lot of people who just fall through the cracks
- End of fiscal year all of AB 109 lost funding for street outreach
 - Went from having people on the ground directly, knowing where to find people on the street, and knowing how to reengage them to no longer having that street outreach program.
- Sex offenders (290 BC – sexually based offenses)
 - Hardest population to serve

Program Capacity As Service Providers

What would you need as service providers to reach full capacity?

- Need employer partners who are ready to hire new population

- More drivers and vehicles to drive around clients to various sites for interviews for housing/ employment/ etc.
- Funding to share housing/ rooms for clients. Housing is a major issue!
- Everything is compartmentalized and so you can have everything you need in your organization but not what you need for the big picture of getting people from step 1 to step 10
 - Difficult for resource providers to be integrated into a system of resources so it would be extremely helpful to have a way of connecting orgs to a network of services.
 - Workers need to shift perspective to understand the bigger picture.
- What can we do to feel empowered to help the clients? It's very disempowering to not be able to help clients.
- County jail personnel are cops, not social workers or case managers. Need to get County on board to want to talk to those orgs who have been doing this work for a long time.
 - Do not have the compassion and empathy skills necessary for re-entry
 - They clock out and are gone, but those in the service industry take their work home.
- There are silos even within law enforcement, probation officers, California prison authority, etc. Need effective management even between them.
- Livable wages! Jobs do not have livable wages. What kind of housing would you get and if you did get it then would you be able to keep it for a long period of time?
 - Education component may come in to solve this issue
 - Technical education can help to get certification of accomplishment to get a job and increase job
 - Need bridge between getting technical degree

Staff Industry Needs – Training

- Implicit bias training
 - A lot of people think they understand the population but need formalized training process.
- Trauma informed care
- If people are not aware of their own internal dilemmas, then it can be more damaging (A lot of people are former justice involved individuals)
 - With that come people who are passionate, but you can get a lot of personality conflicts if you have a lot of people who have been victims, perpetrators, etc.
 - Many people need better reading and writing skills, project management, etc.
- Labor laws
 - Train to turn themselves off and understand that you cannot take work home.
- For people who are reentering into society, they may not be aware of their own traumas and can have so many issues that it can be scary to reach out to help.
 - More job coaches would be ideal to navigate this process

Should community based services be engaged in job development when you have AJCC's on board?

- Yes, because we get them jobs and then case manage
- Clients have mental health/ substance abuse
 - Need more handholding, so the services from case management that allows them to keep stay engaged
- AJCC's can provide funding

How should AJCC relationship be modified?

- A lot of red tape with their funding

- Might not be aware that funding is being used for another project
- Funding has decreased already to be able to provide training that is needed
- Some government programs are number based programs so then sometimes case managers provide low hanging options as opposed to career options
- AJCC's and meeting their numbers → partnerships can help to pre-screen via their community service centers. The AJCC has issues of not being able to meet those numbers. So community service providers can help.
 - Community service providers also have contracts with numbers but they still serve populations that would be turned down otherwise
- Group of individuals that are currently incarcerated that are ready to work, who have taken classes, low offenders. Put training dollars in jail to better prepare people like this who have some soft skills.
- Need motivation skills to see people bigger picture
- Need more collocated services
- Create jail based work source centers (BUT, this would mostly likely create separation groups within the jail for which the sheriff dept would come to determine who deserves to be there).

Is it worth exploring the collocated model?

- Yes, bc it's better than other model

Data base

Cal Jobs could be augmented to have database for the state. Would this be of value?

- It would definitely be valuable bc if two agencies are seeing one client, then another agency doesn't have to start from the very bottom. Time being used to assess the clients can be better spent on helping the client.
- The idea is amazing, but only if it can be made into a practical tool
 - Logistically there are a lot of barriers
 - It would be crucial to not have siloed numbers, so that you don't have categories of "dislocated workers, homeless, etc"
- Electronic Referral Jobs in CalJobs → pilot program with "village" of service providers

Ending Comments

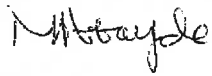

- Empowerment → a lot of clients need to be empowered
- A lot of jobs are over the hill in Los Angeles as opposed to Van Nuys which makes it very hard in terms of transportation logistics.
